The Alumnae of Northwestern University Continuing Education Fall Quarter 2024 Enrollment Opens Tomorrow

EVANSTON, Ill. --- The Alumnae of Northwestern University's Fall Quarter Continuing Education courses, open to the public, are offered in person at Norris Center and live-streamed via Zoom. The CE program features non-credit courses taught by University faculty. All proceeds are given back to the University in the form of scholarships, fellowships, grants, an endowed professorship, and more.

Fall Quarter courses are: The Alumnae Lyceum: Reflections on the Past and Present, taught by faculty from multiple departments; Health Politics and Policies: Paradoxes and Practices at Home and Abroad, taught by Noelle Sullivan, PhD, professor of instruction, director, program in global health studies; The World in our Backyard: Global Cinema and the Chicago International Film Festival, taught by Nick Davis, associate professor, English and gender & sexuality studies; and How We Got to Now: Global Markets in a Turbulent World, taught by Stephen Nelson, associate professor, political science.

Courses will be taught for nine weeks on Tuesdays and Thursdays, beginning September 24. Enrolled students can choose to come to class in person or watch the livestream while also having access to the recordings of each week's lectures for a period of six days following the lecture.

Students can enroll online through Norris Box Office (nbo.universitytickets.com), and then register for the Zoom and recordings. Additional information about the courses is available on The Alumnae website (nualumnae.org). Online enrollment opens Thursday, August 15, 2024.

"We are excited that students can join us this Fall for our 56th year of Alumnae Continuing Education, offering an in-person and/or online version of our long-running series of engaging and enriching courses featuring Northwestern professors," note Debby Hudson, Sheila Gideon, and Kristen Mercker, co-chairs of The Alumnae's Continuing Education committee.

Founded in 1916, The Alumnae of Northwestern is an all-volunteer organization of women. Its Continuing Education program showcases the University's academic resources by offering courses to the public. The proceeds from the Continuing Education program provide for a wide range of projects that benefit the University. The Alumnae has given more than $10 million to the University in the form of grants, fellowships, scholarships, and an endowed professorship, as well as funding special University projects and summer internships. For more information or to sign up for our mailing list, visit The Alumnae's website (www.nualumnae.org).
